DICK PAINTER

During the rare moments in the course of a Manitoba Winter Fair evening horse show when ring activity drops to a minimum, the best-known voice on the Prairies can be counted on to turn the lag to a gag.

R. H. "Dick" Painter, in "working days" an entomologist with the Canada Department of Agriculture, has been returning to Brandon regularly for years, handling the public address system at the biggest indoor agricultural show in western Canada.

Stationed at Brandon a few years ago, Dick Painter knows and is known by more livestock men on the prairies than probably any other individual.

And through years of Winter Fairs, thousands of Manitobans, city folk and their country cousins alike, have come to know him intimately as the "Voice of the Winter Fair".

With a ready wit to meet all situations, whether it be in kidding the ringmaster, interpreting the actions of the judges, filling in dead spots with jokes—some of them new and some heard often enough that they are now almost Dick Painter trademarks—or keeping the show rolling by hurrying tardy contestants into the ring, the man behind the mike is more than just a voice.

He is, in fact, a very real part of the always growing Manitoba Winter Fair.

Contestants for
WHEAT
CITY

SHIRLEY GERRY, BRANDON

Adding new color to the 55th Manitoba Winter Fair are five girls, chosen to represent various agricultural organizations of the province in the contest for a new title—Miss Winter Fair.

The idea for a queen contest was first raised at a directors' meeting in late fall, and few additions to the program of the Winter Fair have met with such a sincere welcome.

The annual meetings of the various livestock organizations were attended by Fair representatives, and here again the reception of the idea was complete.

The girls will be judged Tuesday afternoon by a special committee and the queen will receive her crown before the Tuesday evening crowd.

Representing the Manitoba Sheep Breeders Association is Arlene Abey, 19, of Chater; Marilyn Poole, 19, of Kemnay, was the choice of the Manitoba Swine Breeders; Lyla Killoh, 17, of Hamiota, represents the Manitoba Cattle Breeders, and Shirley Gerry, 21, is the Manitoba Horse Breeders candidate, while Donna Miller, 20, will represent the Manitoba Branch of the Canadian Seed Growers Association.

"GOD SAVE THE QUEEN"

Canada's Top Agricultural Show

The Manitoba Winter Fair, now in its 53rd edition, was born in the minds of a few Brandon men at the 1900 inaugural International Livestock Exhibition at Chicago.

It took a few years, however, before wheels started rolling in earnest in Brandon, as public spirited citizens formed a company to promote a Winter Fair. The first real movement was seen early in 1907, when a joint stock company was formed, shares sold and a building measuring 120 by 228 feet was built.

The spring of 1908 saw the first Winter Fair, with the little building jammed to capacity. Not all was rosy, however, for fire destroyed the first barn. A new fireproof concrete building was constructed shortly following the fire, with the Winter Fair company assisted by the Manitoba government.

Convinced after only a few years that the Winter Fair had a real service to offer to agriculture of Manitoba, the government stepped into the fair's future, unconditionally guaranteeing the bonds required to build the new stable, and at the same time the province assumed a bond issue guaranteed by the city of Brandon for the erection of the Wheat City Arena.

During World War II, the buildings became the centre of an RCAF manning depot and the Winter Fair took a back seat to the war effort.

But in 1946, the buildings were turned over to the city of Brandon, without cost, with the Manitoba Winter Fair listed as preferred tenants. Since that time, extensive renovations have been made to the buildings, the seating capacity of the Arena has been increased and an artificial ice plant installed in the Arena.

Continued growth of the Fair, which has been accelerated in recent years, sparked Winter Fair directors to decide on a new building this year. Of steel and concrete construction, the new barn provides space for hundreds of cattle—and with more than 400 bulls alone listed for sale this year, the new building doesn't leave much room to spare.

The Manitoba Winter Fair has been the scene of several "firsts" in exhibitions. In 1912, the first Boys Calf Feeding Competition in North America was held here. This has grown to tremendous proportions and was actually the beginning of all boys and girls club activities on the continent, sparking the organization of the world-famous 4-H Club movement.

In 1958, patrons of two evening shows were treated to something new again, as 20 boys lined up each evening to "seramble" for ten calves, with each of the ten winners receiving a calf of his own.

The calf scramble idea was not born here, but was held in an indoor show for perhaps the first time in Canada. And by now, the third years of the event, the two calf scrambles of the week are real highlights, drawing full-house crowds each night.

One change has been made in the calf scramble, as John Labatt last year began an association with the Winter Fair by donating the money for the purchase of ten purebred heifers. This year the first group of heifers returns in a special continuation class, with the animals and their handlers both judged. Winners of the other scramble also return their beef animals for judging, but the latter beasts are destined for the platter, while the heifers can well serve as a starting point for future purebred breeders.

Support for the Winter Fair comes from the Dominion and Provincial governments, the city of Brandon, grain companies and livestock associations of Manitoba.

Classes for heavy horses, light horses, beef cattle, swine and 4-H exhibits are open to the world.

And in addition, the evening horse show is rated as one of the outstanding events of its kind in western Canada, with horses, ponies and owners from the three Prairie Provinces competing for trophies and glory.

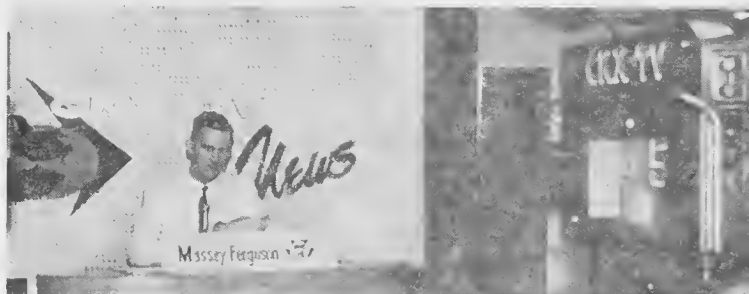

HON. GEO. HUTTON
Minister of Agriculture
for Manitoba

Televised across Canada by CBC and Locally by CKX-TV

CKX News and Sports Directors, Jim Struthers and Henry Stothard will combine with veteran newscaster John Wallace on "Fair Facts", a daily thirty-minute television report on the Fair. "Fair Facts", will include interviews with Fair personalities and film coverage of various activities.

The Winter Fair's "hard news" will be presented on CKX-TV's two daily newscasts. The 6:30 p.m. Newscasts will feature a two-minute film capsule recap of fair news over the past twenty-four hours. Night Desk, seen each evening at 10:15 p.m. will highlight late-breaking fair stories on film. CKX Radio will provide listeners with judging results, attendance figures, and program reviews on all regular newscasts. This will be supplemented by "live" reports direct from the Winter Fair. Highlights of the Fair's six evening shows to be broadcast "live" include the official opening ceremonies, the crowning of the Winter Fair Queen, the light horse shows and many others. "Farm Fare" at 7:25 a.m. and "Ag. Report" at 1:05 p.m. will be devoted almost exclusively to Winter Fair features. Frank Bird, acting Farm Director, will keep listeners informed on the agricultural side of the Fair, while Henry Stothard, CKX Radio and Television Sports Director, will keep Western and Central Manitobans up to date on happenings at the evening light horse programs. Jack Tennant, John Wallace, Bob Carle, and Ken Johnson will perform reporting assignments direct from Fair. CKX Radio and Television will paint a vivid sight and sound picture of the 1960 Manitoba Winter Fair for all Western and Central Manitobans to enjoy.

55th ANNUAL BULL SALE

"Ten years ago we sold 98 bulls. Today we have 265 entered."

The man speaking was Jim Clark, Manitoba livestock commissioner, and the date was just a year ago.

And as Mr. Clark traced the huge gains made by the bull sale, an essential feature of every Manitoba Winter Fair, it is probable that he didn't even hope to see more than 400 bulls in the sale ring just 12 months later.

The heavy snows that blanketed Manitoba last October are responsible, at least to some degree, for the huge jump in entries this spring. Many herdsmen, finding themselves short of feed and bedding in the fall decided against buying a bull at that time and as a result, more animals are available now and it is presumed that buyers will also be eager to pick up the herd bulls needed to keep the quality of Manitoba cattle improving.

The bull sale, an annual event, is in its 55th edition this week. The bulls will parade for culling on Tuesday morning and will be judged Wednesday morning.

Thursday morning will see the first round of the sale, with the biggest group of bulls, the Herefords, sold first. Shorthorns and Aberdeen Angus will go under the auctioneer's hammer Friday morning.

Co-operation between the Manitoba department of agriculture and the federal health of animals department this year has led to a real change in several of the aspects of the Bull Sale. All animals entering the sale ring will have their "papers" complete, with all necessary tests completed and will be ready for export from Canada as soon as they are sold.

In addition, representatives of the national breed associations will be on hand to take care of the details of transferring certificates at the same time.

CALF SCRAMBLE

Three years ago, a new recipe for Winter Fair fun was devised.

Simple in its list of materials, this event calls for about ten calves, twice that many boys, an assortment of officials and judges, and a cheering crowd, all combined under the lights of the Arena.

A "sell-out" favorite ever since it was first tried, the Calf Scramble appears to be one of the events that will go on and on in Winter Fair future history.

At the start, the scramble was held two evenings, in 1958, with the winning boys emerging from the dusty battle the owners of beef calves to be fed and groomed for several months and returned to the following year's Winter Fair for showing in a special continuation class.

Last Year, John Labatt donated the money for ten calves, specifying as he did that the calves should be purebred heifers which could be used as the starting point for the development of new purebred herds in Manitoba.

And so this year there will again be two scrambles, with the beef calf scramble—with prizes donated by business firms, livestock organizations and interested individuals—held on Tuesday evening and the Labatt heifer scramble, slated for Friday evening as a part of the hour-long live television program which CBC is sending across Western Canada from 10:15 to 11:15 p.m.

Calf scrambles are becoming more popular every year, with some of the major American rodeos featuring the crowd-thrilling events and the Regina Winter Horse Show this year introducing the scramble to that part of the prairies for the first time.

More than 10,000 visitors watched the two scrambles last year at the Winter Fair, and when the dust cleared from the Arena and 20 battered boys lined up to receive their symbols of victory—purchase certificates for winners and halters for losers—the crowd roared.

Boys taking part in the scrambles are nominated by the agricultural representatives of the various parts of Western Manitoba.

And after the winners buy their calves in late fall, the calves and their progress towards show shape are watched and guided by a committee of livestock experts from the Winter Fair.

In this way, as well as having won a valuable animal, each boy has a chance to watch that animal develop into one of even more value. And the experience gained in the feeding program can be the basis of a start in the life of more of the expert cattlemen for whom Manitoba is famous across Canada.

The "partnership" between boys and beef calves is a rather short one, ending at the auction ring Thursday morning, but winners of heifer calves take their animals home from the Fair, a start in the business of raising show ring stock.

Various Breeds of Livestock

CLYDESDALES

This breed was originated in the Lowlands, mainly the County of Lanark, which is watered throughout its length by the River Clyde. Horses of superior quality were reared in the Valley of the Clyde for more than 300 years.

Breed records begin about 1750 when John Paterson, a tenant farmer in Lanarkshire imported a black Flemish stallion from England. Mated with the native mares, Paterson's stallion proved most prepotent and the offspring were big horses, mostly browns and blacks, and nearly all had white markings on the face and legs. In the evolution of the Clydesdale more attention was paid to action and correct quality of feet and legs, than to body conformation and weight. The presence of considerable hair or feather on the legs is distinctive. The feather should be straight and fine and not too abundant. The average Clydesdale is slightly above the Percheron and Belgian in height at the withers.

PERCHERONS

The Percheron horse originated in the old and fertile district of La Perche in North Western France. The early history of the Percheron breed is not clear; but it is apparent that French horses were related to the Flemish stock from which the Belgian breed sprang rather directly; however, the earliest French horses were less famous for size than for activity and adaptability. It now appears that the Percheron breed has been influenced more than the Belgian by outside blood. The transformation of the Percheron to an agricultural draft horse began about 1830 when railways were displacing the horse drawn stages. The first French horses to cross the Atlantic came to Canada in 1647 and since that time have played an important part in the development of agriculture in Canada and the United States.

BELGIANS

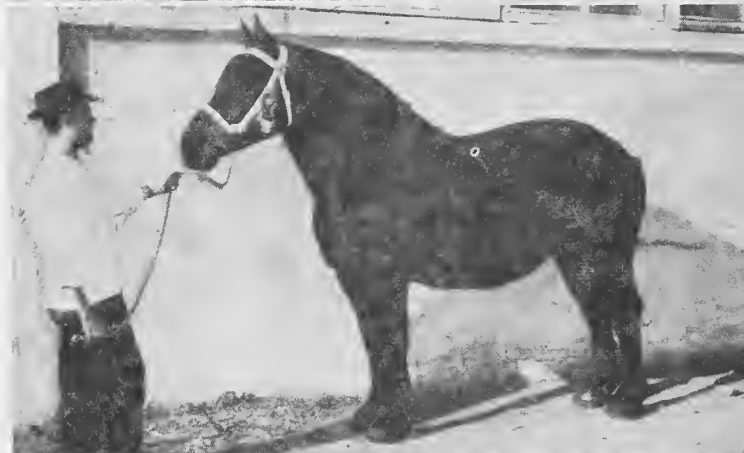

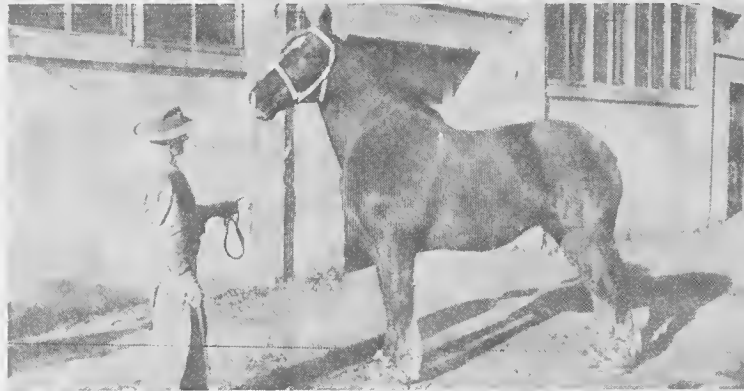

No other breed of draft horses can claim such an ancient history; indeed, it is generally supposed that the origin will trace back to the early Christian era and geographically to the upper basin of the Meuse River. Certainly horses of great size have been reared in that part of Western Europe for 2000 years. The native breed of horse has played a big part in the national life, so that breeding and improvement have received the best aid and support which the country could provide. The fame of those heavy horses and the demand for them increased as the knights acquired the habit of wearing heavy metal armour when mounted. Besides being big and powerful, the Flemish horses were said to be active and stylish but not fast, and to own them was the ambition of the iron-clad knights in many countries. The Belgian is one of the two breeds of draft horses from Continental Europe to become important in Canada and the United States and will be found today in all the States and Provinces of the Continent.

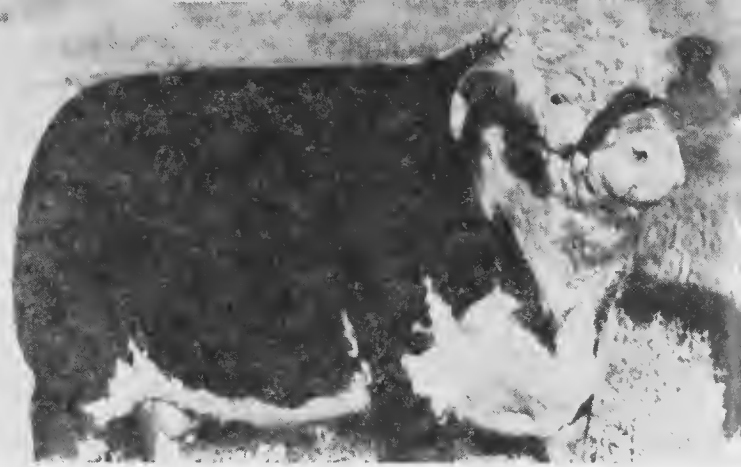

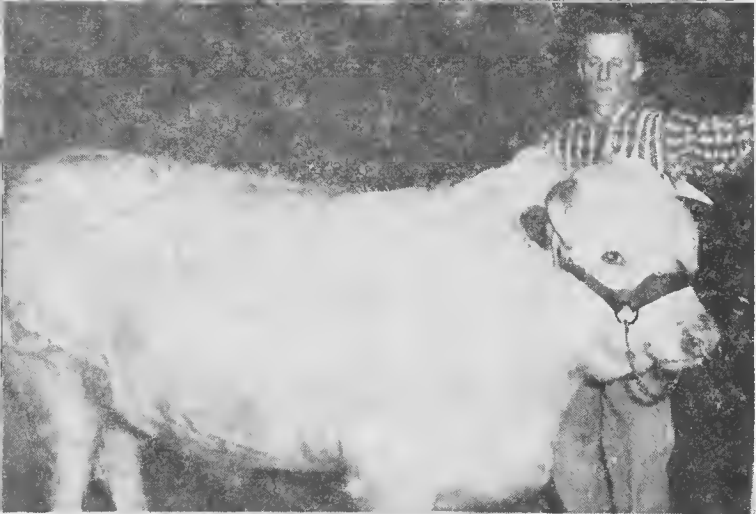

THE YORKSHIRE

The Yorkshire or large white breed, considered to be the world's foremost bacon-producer, was evolved in North England, principally in the county of Yorkshire. The Yorkshire is not only eminently suitable for Wiltshire sides, but its general type is liked by butchers catering to domestic requirements; the quality and high percentage of lean meat are the characteristics which make the carcasses suitable for either trade. According to dressing methods which are common in Canada, a good market pig of the Yorkshire breed will yield around 74 or 75 per cent of carcass.

Good representatives of the breed have long bodies, smooth shoulders, well sprung ribs and an abrupt break of rib, flat side and wide, full loin. A widespread early view was that Yorkshires were hard feeders when compared with American breeds or British breeds. However, it is recognized that the various breeds digest and utilize their feed with about equal efficiency. Yorkshires have gone to many parts of the world and to all countries where bacon production is an important ant enterprise and are numerous in all the Provinces in the Dominion and are becoming increasingly popular in the United States, where the trend is to a leaner carcass in the production of bacon.

ABERDEEN-ANGUS

These cattle originated in the counties of Aberdeen and Angus in Scotland, and were first imported into Canada in 1876. This is a strictly "polled" breed. Because of their show record and the superior quality of the finished steers, cattle of Aberdeen-Angus breeding are always in demand for feedlot purposes. Aberdeen-Angus are known as the "butchers ideal" because of a peculiar quality of the flesh which takes the form of marbling the beef with fat rather than separating the fat and beef into layers. Another feature is their racial dominance which results in the elimination of horns from progeny on animals inter-bred with Aberdeen-Angus.

SHORTHORN

This breed originated in counties of Durham, York and Northumberland in England. English bred Shorthorns incline towards dual purpose qualities but Amos Cruikshanks of Aberdeenshire, Scotland, developed a strictly beef type, commonly known as Scotch Shorthorns. The first importation of Shorthorns into Canada was made in 1825. Originally all Shorthorns were horned but, as a result of selection from a hornless "sport", a polled line has been developed. The Shorthorn breed is commonly referred to as "the farmers breed" because of their adaptability to the average mixed farm.

HEREFORDS

These originated in the county of Herefordshire, England, and were first imported into the United States in 1817 and to Canada in 1860. They are noted for their hardiness and rustling qualities, combined with good grazing ability. Hereford cattle can claim to be the universal beef breed, as they are found in every part of the world where beef cattle are raised. Herefords have throughout the world, proved themselves to be without a doubt the best ranching cattle. There are both horned and polled Herefords.

FUTURITY SHOWS

The three Beef Cattle Breeders' Associations in Manitoba work in conjunction with the Manitoba Winter Fair in staging Futurity Shows. The first Futurity Show in this province was sponsored by the Hereford Association in 1945. Since that time it has gained steadily in popularity and in number of entries.

These competitions are open to any breeder of beef cattle resident in Manitoba. Animals to be entered are selected and identified several months in advance and once entered cannot be substituted. This rule is strictly enforced and prevents the large breeder from fitting a large number of animals from which to select his exhibits on show day. This feature was developed in order to provide breeders, large and small, an equal opportunity to select and develop individuals for this show. Smaller breeders have enthusiastically supported the Futurity idea and have made a major contribution to its successful development. Each show sees new exhibitors making their start in showing competition.

The highlight of the spring futurities is the selection of the Supreme Champion bull and heifer in inter-breed competition. The Champions coming from each breed are brought together, a panel of five judges selects the champion male and female of the Futurity Show. This feature has developed considerable enthusiasm among breeders and competition between breeds is keen.

The Futurity Show is financed by the breeders taking part in it. The entry fees are used to pay expenses and provide prize money.

Futurity Shows were originated as a breed improvement project, their steady growth reflects the continued development of the pure bred beef cattle industry in Manitoba.

WESTERN CANADA SEED SHOW

Many of the thousands of visitors at each edition of the Manitoba Winter Fair stop for a good look at the single section of the big show that draws competitors from all across the prairie provinces—the Western Canada Seed Show.

Taking a place of prominence in this year's huge display will be a sample of oats which earned for a pair of brothers from Bruxelles the title of World Oat King when judged last fall at the Toronto Royal Winter Fair.

Louise and Roland Devos currently hold the Oat King title, winning it with a hand-picked sample of oats, and will be represented in the select company at the Seed Show. It isn't a new competition for the Devos brothers, however, as they have been picking up ribbons at Brandon for a few years now.

Manitoba and Western Canada championships are on the line during the Seed Show for the growers of grains, forage crops, potatoes, wheat, barley and oats, with many of the 1959 champions back to protect their titles.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS AND MANAGEMENT of the Manitoba Winter Fair would like to take this opportunity of expressing their appreciation to the Press, Radio, T-V, Commercial Firms and Individuals for their assistance in helping us to stage our Annual Show.

We feel that without the help of these people it would be very difficult for us to carry out our obligations, which are to promote the breeding and feeding of better livestock and the growing and selection of better strains and purer varieties of seed grain and vegetables.
